

The Arrangement of the Workshops in Deferent Segments of the Society

Achievements of the State Ministry for Parliamentary Affairs (SMPA) in the First Six Months of the Year

Second Achievement

A nation will go progress if its citizens are aware of the laws, procedures, and regulations and fulfill their obligations as a responsible citizen by following those laws. Each institution strive their best to give information to the public about their work, so the public can hold them accountable for it. In the last six months, SMPA through holding (12) successful workshops- educated and brought awareness in thousands people's lives about the law passing procedures, separation of power between the three branches of the government, functions and responsibilities of the State Ministry for Parliamentary Affairs, functions and responsibilities of each branch of the government. Many workshops were also conducted for bringing awareness and educating teachers, academic, students, civil society member, political movements and other segments of the society. In the end we can say-with full confidence that those workshops were effective enough to give information to the public about deferent topics which is considered a major achievement for the State Ministry of Parliamentary Affairs.
